FOREWORD

In this time of turmoil, we, the ORACLE Staff, feel that the seniors of Wakefield High in future years will prize a volume that brings back memories of their youth. We think, too, that this book is an excellent means of informing the public of the activities of this class throughout the last four years. We have endeavored, also, to maintain the high literary excellence of the past as we present our theme: "LIFE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT." That each reader will enjoy the contents of the following pages is our sincere hope.

Editor-in-Chief

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The ORACLE Staff wishes to thank these friends whose loyal co-operation has been indispensable to the success of the Yearbook:

Miss Bernice L. Caswell, who has been our experienced guide and ever helpful adviser; Miss Alice Ryan, under whose efficient supervision the typists have done an immense amount of painstaking labor for us; Mr. Paul W. Mortimer of the WAKEFIELD ITEM COMPANY, who assisted in the production of this book; and our capable Business Staff, without whose aid this issue could not have been presented.

To our contributing artists we express our sincere appreciation of their freely given talents: Olive Bridge, designer of cover and title page; Barbara Tupper, cartoonist; Robert Peterson and Carl Brown, candid camera photographers.

“FOREVER HONOUR'D, AND FOREVER MOURN'D”

The recent death of Roy LeBlanc was a sincere loss to the school, and especially to his classmates. Unselfish and unassuming, he was ever ready to assist a worthy cause and to work untiringly for success. His friendly spirit was a challenge that inspired the best in others. Time alone will heal the grief of his passing and honor him in the memories of his friends.

A TRIBUTE TO WAKEFIELD HIGH

As we pause rather triumphantly on the threshold of a new life, we are saddened at the thought of leaving our home of memories, friendships, and experiences; for high school is the melting pot of American youth, and we are a significant part of that group. Wakefield High has taught us how to live—the greatest art in the world. To our Alma Mater we owe a debt of immeasurable value that we shall try to repay with our everlasting gratitude and loyalty.

Lookout Staff (3).

Although Helen, a graduate of Greenwood School, appears rather quiet in class, outside she is one of the best of companions. Among her friends, she is known for her amiable disposition, her promptitude, her droll wit, and her favorite lunchtime snack of a "toiky" sandwich. Never mind, Helen, we know that you can take it, for you've always been a good sport.

IN APPRECIATION OF THE FACULTY OF WAKEFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

For four years we, the Class of 1942, have been under the capable guidance of our teachers, men and women who have striven conscientiously and persistently to divulge to us a varied knowledge—a knowledge which would alleviate some of the impediments which will inevitably confront us in our pursuit of a trade, a profession, or a higher education. Some of us have diligently absorbed this essential learning and are richer by its accumulation; others have been dilatory and are poorer by our deprivation.

Our teachers have been our friends, our wise counselors. They have not only aided us in obtaining the education we now possess, but also advised those pupils who have needed assistance. Moreover, they have willingly guided us in our extra-curricula activities.

It is natural, therefore, that we leave this school of pleasant memories with a genuine love and respect for our teachers who, with patience and endurance, have given us the weapon of knowledge with which to combat the obstacles to success.

The Student Council is now in its third successful year. The membership is limited to twenty-seven seniors, seven juniors, and six sophomores. All members have been recommended by a number of students and teachers. The faculty advisers are Miss Eleanor K. Abbott and Mr. R. Edgar Fisher. Our Student Council is affiliated with the Association of Student Councils of High Schools in Massachusetts.

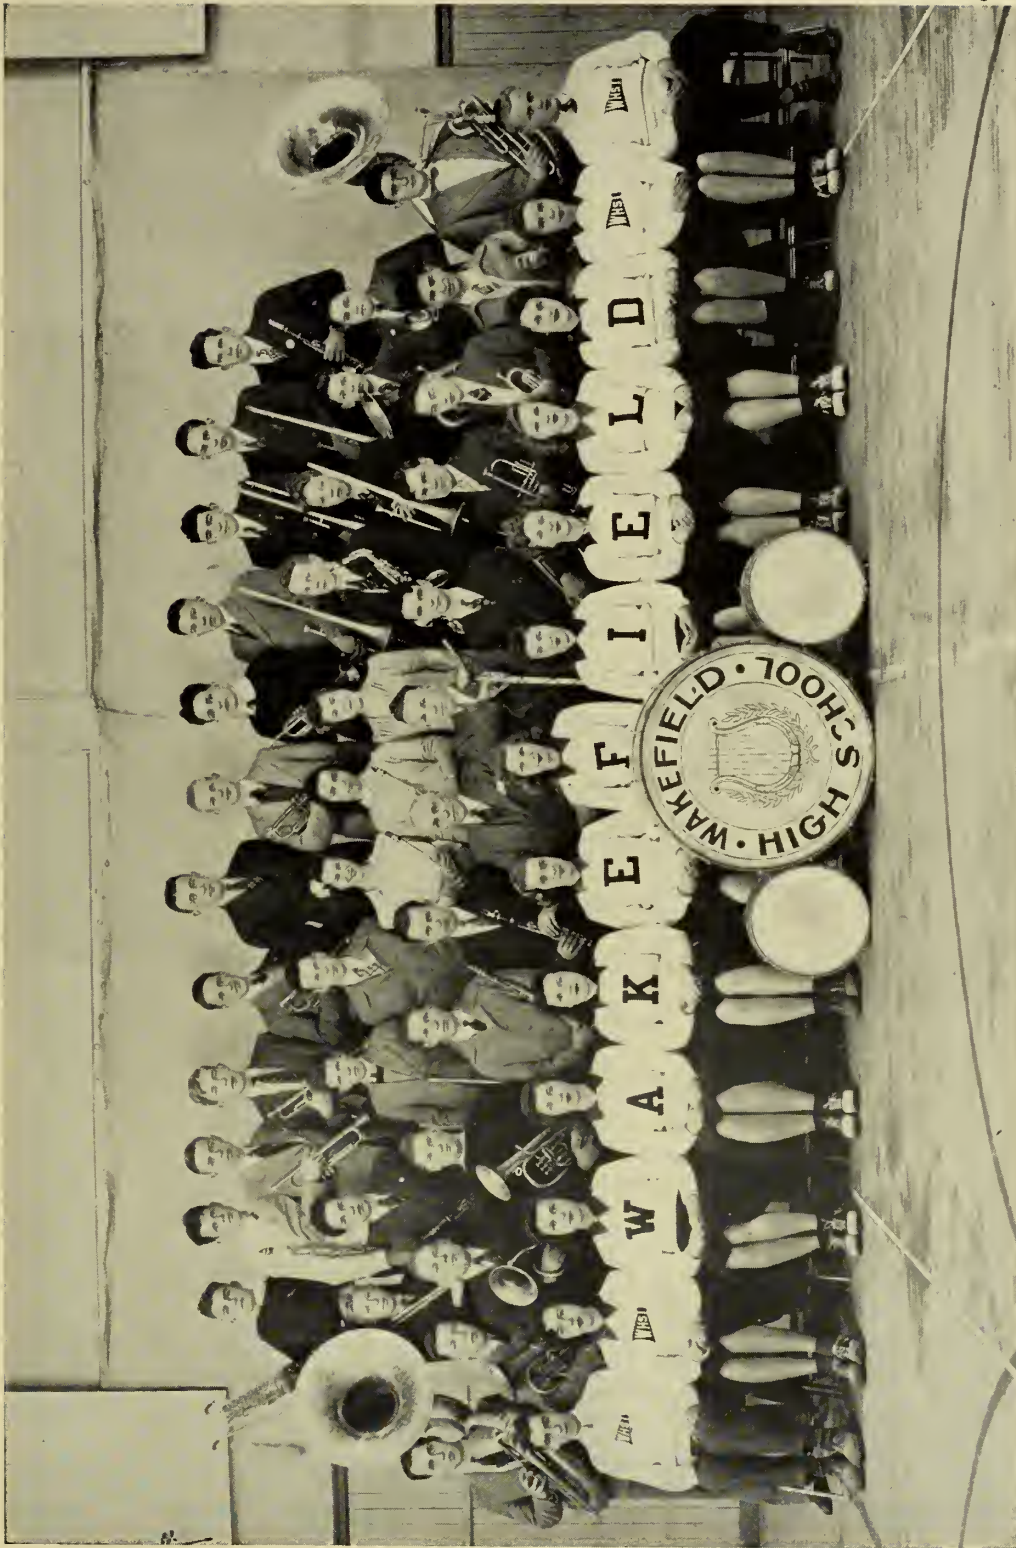

The Council has been exceptionally active this year. It was the originator of the selling of Defense Stamps at recess on Tuesdays. It sponsored buses for the hockey games, and has aided any worthy school project. The School Manuals for next year have been prepared by this organization. One very commendable thing the Student Council did was the installing of a box in the office for suggestions from the student body concerning the betterment of school life. Little wonder then that the Student Council is becoming more popular each year. May it always be with us!

LIBRARY STAFF

THE LIBRARY SERVICE CLUB

It was due to the persistence of a former principal, Mr. Charles H. Howe, that we enjoy our library. He was desirous of one in the Lafayette Building, and when the school was moved to its present location, a library was established in his memory. Miss Louise Sheldon is the fourth librarian to officiate and many a pleasant hour has been spent in our library under her watchful eyes. Ever thoughtful and considerate, she has rendered valuable service to all. Our Library Senior Club owes its origin to her and interested pupils. This year's library assistants have handled and cared for approximately two thousand books, besides numerous pamphlets and magazines. The members of this year's group are the following: Mildred Bye, George Oliver, Joseph Hartshorne, June Coulter, Lurline Maugeri, and Virginia Stanley.

The steady progress of the High School Band has placed it in an enviable position among the organizations of Wakefield High School. Under the inspiring leadership of Mr. Fanck, the band has had a wide range of activities. Besides playing at various school assemblies and at all our football games, it has participated in the May Concert, the Spring Music Festival, and the Memorial Day Parade.

During the present school year, the School Committee voted to permit girls to join this group, and, as a result, the band has gained three feminine members.

WAKEFIELD HIGH SCHOOL ORCHESTRA: 1941-1942

This year's orchestra is a notable example of what a good director and hard work can accomplish. Last June's graduation took away many of the veteran members, and meant that Mr. Fanck would have an inexperienced group to work with this year. Under his patient guidance, the orchestra has developed into a polished unit, quick to respond to the director's baton.

Believing that the best way for the orchestra to achieve experience is to give public concerts, Mr. Fanck arranged for many engagements. School assemblies, the Greenwood Parent-Teachers' Association, the Mothers' Club—all have heard and enjoyed the music of our orchestra. In addition, the youthful musicians gave a Christmas program and played an important part in National Music Week.

The members of the orchestra are as follows:

THE INTER NOS CLUB: 1941-1942

Under the efficient and helpful guidance of Miss Helen F. Gilmore, the faculty sponsor, the Inter Nos Club began the fourteenth year in October, 1941. The Inter Nos Director worked diligently to give the club an enjoyable year with the following program:

October—Miss Hazel Ganter who spoke on "The Value of Correct Personal Appearance."

November—Four speakers representing various types of colleges.

December—Mrs. Mansfield spoke on Christmas novelties.

January—Two representatives from the Massachusetts School of Normal Art.

February—The Hi-Y boys were guests of the club to hear Reverend Ralph J. Bertholf speak.

March—The annual Mother-Daughter meeting with short plays staged by the Dell School of Boston.

April—The tea dance.

May—The annual business meeting with reports and election of officers.

The Club's purpose, "To create school spirit and intellectually broaden the vision of each girl in Wakefield High School," was successfully carried out at these friendly monthly meetings.

MR. MANTON SPEAR, Adviser

Under the guidance of a capable group of officers, the Hi-Y Club has provided the school with a great many social activities and has exemplified the purpose for which it stands: "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character through clean speech, clean living, clean scholarship, and clean sportsmanship." The Hi-Y has increased social contacts with its Christmas Dance and its entertainment of high school pupils. It has aided the poorer classes of the town by giving them a cheery Christmas. Not the least enjoyable of its many activities has been the list of worthwhile speakers who have addressed the club on topics of the day. Ably assisted by its genial adviser, Mr. Manton Spear, the Hi-Y Club is a potent force for good in Wakefield High School.

The group has had a very successful year. The list of activities includes the Christmas Concert given in co-operation with the Boys' Glee Club, a program presented for the Lynnfield Women's Club, and the concluding event of the year—the Spring Concert.

Some of the activities this year have included the Christmas assembly and the Christmas Public Concert. The Club has also participated in the May Concert.

The artistic success of the group is due to the capable leadership of the faculty sponsor, Mr. Arthur Fulton. Wakefield High School is proud, indeed, of this worthy musical organization.

SENIOR PLAY COMMITTEE

The Senior Play Executive Committee had much to do with the success of this year's production. The choice of the presentation was commendable, as was the selection of the two casts. This group appointed the chairmen of the various play committees and supervised the many details. George Oliver was voted the chairman, and he was ably assisted by the other members.

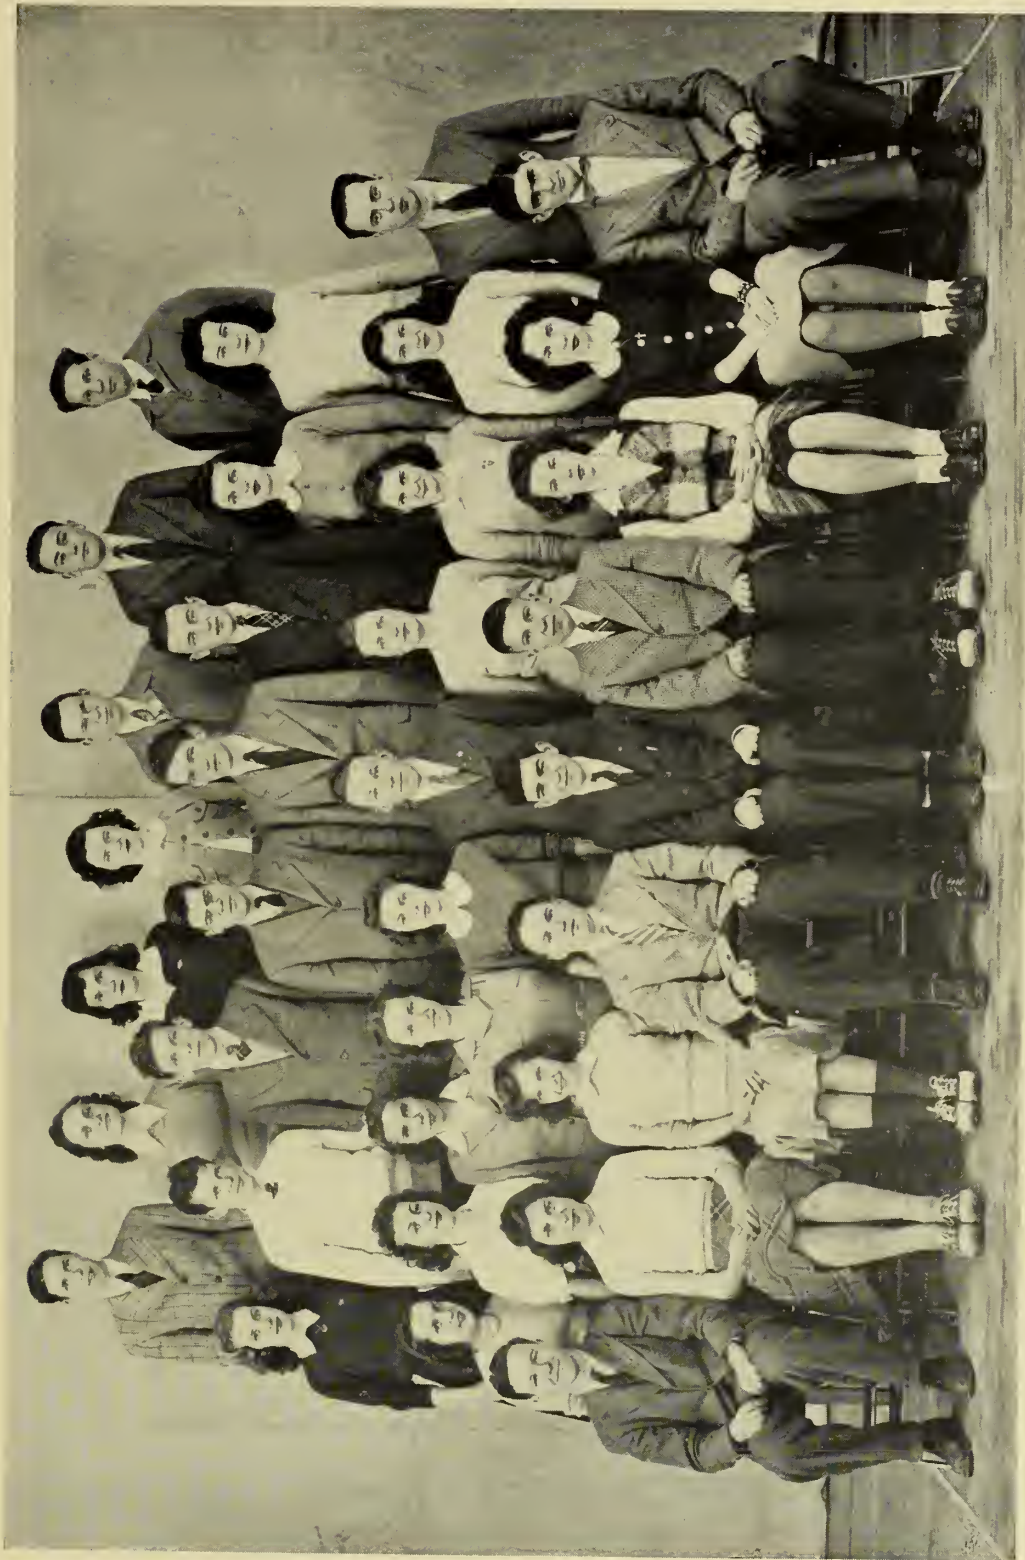

GOLF TEAM

GOLF: 1941-1942

Although the golf team of Wakefield High School was first organized in 1937, only recently has golf become a popular sport here. Wakefield is now a member of the Middlesex League, which includes Stoneham, Reading, Saugus, Melrose, and Wakefield. At the Sagamore Springs Golf Course, the boys practice and hold most of their league tournaments.

In 1941, the golf team was ably captained by "Tino" Barsanti. This team was a brilliant success, for the boys won six games in succession and were defeated only once—by Stoneham. Again in 1942, Wakefield hopes to be victorious, since five of last year's players will be eligible to participate in all golf matches. John Lan is captain this year, while Joseph Sousa, who is a junior, has been elected manager.

Much of the success of the Wakefield High School golf team is due to the effort and understanding of Mr. John Butler, who gives up much of his spare time to coach the team.

THE SENIOR PLAY

One of the most effective accomplishments of the Class of 1942 was the Senior Play, What a Life, which was presented by members of the class on Friday and Saturday evenings, December 5 and 6, 1941.

This three-act comedy by Clifford Goldsmith was well applauded by two exceptionally large audiences; and the trials and tribulations of Henry Aldrich and his friends were skillfully and realistically portrayed by both casts.

Much credit for the success of the play was due to the able coaching of Mr. John Butler, as well as to the industrious activity of the senior play committee.

When the curtain fell on the last chapter of the 1941 Wakefield gridiron season, a stubborn Wakefield High football squad had turned in an acceptable record of five victories against five defeats, gaining second place in the Mystic Valley League.

The majority of the players were inexperienced, but under the able supervision of Coach Healey, our team put on a great battle in every game. A disheartening blow hit Wakefield when Co-Captain Paul Lazzaro, one of the star backs, sustained a fractured ankle in the Malden game and was sidelined for the season.

Led almost in every case by the dependable and spectacular play of Co-Captain Larry Bartnick, Wakefield's first All-Scholastic back, the home team piled up score advantages over Swampscott, Woburn, Watertown, Winthrop, and Reading, while Malden, Winchester, Melrose, Peabody, and Saugus proved superior. The season which many thought would be a dismal failure turned out to be a fairly successful one. Let's hope that next year's team fights as hard and as fairly as this year's team.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAMS: 1941-1942

The girls' basketball teams as yet have not played many games with other schools. They have, however, had much worthwhile practice under the able leadership of Miss Nichols. Each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at either the High School gymnasium or the Armory, there is practice.

Of the seniors playing basketball this year, there are only two: H. Katherine Williams and June Fournier. These girls have been active in sports throughout the four years, and, with the help of four other seniors, we are sure that a senior team next year would be successful. At present twelve homerooms are represented by teams in friendly competition. Interest is keen, and the spirit of rivalry at its best. The girls of Wakefield High School deserve commendation for their co-operation and enthusiasm.

BOYS' BASKETBALL: 1941-1942

With a handful of lettermen back, and a green group of sophomores on hand, the fortune of the 1941-42 basketball team was not expected to take an upward surge. Led by Captain Larry Bartnick, the Wakefield team put a squad on the floor which fought desperately to the last minute of play. "Puck" Sardella, "Bump" O'Neil, Paul Lazzaro, Don Pelletier, "Jackie" Manning, "Dutchie" Smith, and "Greg" Gregoria completed the first squad.

Under the new system of popular Coach Colucci, Wakefield players didn't find themselves until late in the season. Then they defeated a previously unbeaten Lexington team, who were considered "sure things" for the Middlesex League title. "Hank" O'Neil led the team in scoring, and his services will be appreciated again next season. Coach Colucci added much color to the team, and Wakefield will certainly miss this young mentor, who will soon be taking orders from Uncle Sam.

TRACK: 1941-1942

In the spring of 1941 the track team encouraged its new coach, Mr. Colucci, by finishing the season with a fine record. The boys fought courageously in their first scheduled meet only to lose to Beverly by the narrow margin of one-half a point. But the team came back after this close decision to beat Melrose and Saugus, and when the final results of the three-cornered meet at Peabody were written into the records, the Wakefield team had captured the most points. Coach Colucci's lads also placed second in the Mystic Valley Meet at the Tufts Oval in Medford.

Jim Landrigan, Patsy Carisella and Flash Spencer served as co-captains, and each had a commendable season.

This spring's team should be just as successful because many of last year's group will return. Among those expected to turn out are Joseph Dinan, John MacElroy, Paul Christopher, and possibly Larry Bartnick.

The cross-country team, partially because of poor support from the student body, did not meet with as much success as the tracksters. They did, however, win one meet at the Winchester course. Joe Dinan, also a member of the track team, captained the barriers last fall. John MacElroy, a promising junior, is bound to be a valuable asset to the teams next season.

HOCKEY

 Second row: Coach Dinan, J. Cryan, H. Radcliffe, B. Strong, A. Thresher, J. Inglis, J. Hurley
 Third row: J. LeFave, W. Thornton, F. Sousa

BOYS' HOCKEY TEAM: 1941-1942

The hockey team certainly has been a credit to Wakefield High School this year. Under Coach Dinan's careful guidance, it has won victory after victory. Even though it is the first time the hockey team has played in the Eastern Massachusetts League, the players won the championship. The Somerville game determined the winner, and Wakefield arose triumphant. All the boys have cooperated well, and James Hurley has done a fine piece of work as manager. The first team consists of William Cullen, Foster Cummings, Charles MacDonald, Wendell Vidito, Earle Richardson, Joseph Czarnota, and official sub, James Melanson.

GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY

Second row: C. Cook, R. Roberto, B. May, C. Fotino, A. Lenners, Miss Nichols, H. Melonson, G. Mohla, K. Allen, A. DeSantis

GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY: 1941-1942

Because of the smaller number of girls participating in hockey this year, there was just one team. However, much praise is due the girls for their faithful and enthusiastic practice. The game with Stoneham was a hard struggle, for Stoneham won by only one point, the score being 1 to 0. Kay Williams, our only senior, deserves special commendation for her playing; and praise goes to Miss Nichols, the faculty coach, for her able training.

TENNIS TEAM
 Second row: S. Grandfield, F. Spencer, A. Klapes

TENNIS: 1941-1942

Although the 1941 tennis team did not enjoy a very successful season—winning one match out of six—the sport is gaining in popularity. At present it is comparatively new at Wakefield High, but time will prove our boys to be as formidable in this sport as in all others.

Paul Lazzaro compiled the best individual record, losing only one game during the entire season. "Don" Pelletier, Brydon Baker, and Burten Strong also gave a good account of themselves, and next season should prove them all to be important cogs in the function of the tennis team. Wakefield's opponents include Stoneham, Reading, and Danvers, and in the future they had better watch out for the rackets of our Wakefield boys. Serve some aces, boys!

BASEBALL TEAM

 Second row: H. Shellenberger (Coach), F. Cummings, J. Czarnota, H. O'Neil, J. McMahon, F. Morgan
 Third row: J. Inglis, W. Vidito, R. Kelly

BASEBALL: 1941

The 1941 baseball team had an exceptionally good season, winning thirteen games and losing merely four. Our star of all sports, Larry Bartnick, turned out a wonderful average in this sport, which he claims he likes the best. He was ably assisted by Co-Captain Jim Melanson. Two other members to be commended are "Hossie" Cummings and "Buck" McMahon, who both managed to put over a single or a double when it was needed.

The Melrose, Lexington, and Winchester games were easy victories with Wakefield leading by six or more runs. All in all, the baseball team of 1941 can be set forth as an excellent example of teamwork, for which credit should be given to every player.

THE SALUTATORY

Youth Defends America

By MILDRED CARDILLO, Salutatorian

Tonight, in behalf of the Class of 1942, I extend a most cordial welcome to you—our parents, our teachers, and our friends. I know that I am expressing the sentiment of all when I say that we are proud and happy to have you here as we celebrate this most important event of our high school career. We further hope that we shall be able to convey to you some conception of the progress and accomplishments of the younger generation. With this thought in mind, we have chosen as the theme for our program, "America Speaks Through Her Youth."

In the midst of a turbulent world in which almost everything is being challenged, it is gratifying, indeed, to note the increasing acceptance of 4-H Club work as a unique type of defense throughout the country. At this time, it seems especially fitting to pay tribute to those who have played the great parts in making possible this type of defense which can function so effectively during this national crisis.

With its stress on democratic methods and the welfare of each member, the 4-H Club is a truly American movement. Government supervision and leadership have meant the strengthening of democratic ideals and methods set up by 4-H. In the million and a half American youth who are 4-H members, America has just cause for pride, for these are potential citizens with a knowledge of democracy and a keen desire to make the best better.

Four-H Club work was started as early as 1896, but little progress was made until a few years later. In 1904, the United States government sent Dr. Seaman A. Knapp into the South to study the boll weevil, which was rapidly destroying the cotton crops. It was here that he organized the Farmers' Co-operative Demonstration Movement, and in so doing, he recalled the club work as he had seen it earlier in the central states. While touring the country, he began the organization of boys' corn clubs. Such was the beginning of 4-H Club work in the United States.

At first, each club member was required to grow one acre of corn under the direction of the United States Department of Agriculture. So well did the youngsters follow their instructions that in many cases their crops excelled those of their parents.

Business and professional men then became interested in their work and offered to help the boys in purchasing the best possible seed. As might be expected, prizes were given for the best crops. In the fall of 1909 the winners in the prairie states of the Mississippi Valley were awarded a week in Washington, with the result that many boys became interested, and soon other clubs were organized.

So far the work had been wholly for boys; but in 1910, Mrs. Marie Seigler, a rural school teacher, started the first tomato and canning club. A short time later, sewing and cooking clubs were organized for girls.

By this time, interest in 4-H Club work had spread throughout the country. Public confidence led to increased financial support from states, counties, and other interested sources. In 1914 Congress passed the Smith-

Sever Extension Act, which provided for future work in agriculture and economics.

The 4-H program is one with a purpose. A former state leader has set forth the object of 4-H Club work in the following brief words. He says, "The purpose of club work is to arouse the present generation of boys and girls to a more complete realization and appreciation of the advantages and possibilities of rural life in their birth states; and to assist boys and girls through organizations and leadership to think independently, to assume responsibility, and to follow systematically, persistently, and logically to a successful termination a few constructive club projects."

The steady progress of 4-H Club work in the last quarter century will play an important role in the crucial days ahead. The 4-H members symbolize the precious heritage which the citizens of this democracy hold essential to their democratic way of life. They can appeal, through the 1,500,000 members, for a unity of purpose which in times of great crises is essential to the life of a nation. Moreover, they can increase their efforts in their regular 4-H Club work, which in itself is a vital part of any national defense program. As 4-H members, they can achieve even greater results, both as producers and conservationists. In all such endeavors, 4-H Club work is to be truly considered a striking example of democracy at work.

During these important times we are hearing much about bombers and battleships for National Defense; but there is more to National Defense than this equipment, important as it may be. The strength of our nation lies, to a greater extent, in the youth of today—the leaders of tomorrow. As time goes on, and these youths become the leaders of their communities, our nation will grow great and strong.

Our 4-H groups will struggle earnestly for their own progress and for the defense of their country. They will work untiringly to preserve their freedom and will stand firmly for the sovereignty of the people. They—and they alone—are responsible in no small part for the sustenance of a great nation and her allies. Whether as farmers, nutritionists, or home makers, the 4-H Clubs play an important defense role in strengthening the nation for the years that lie ahead.

HONOR ESSAY

Our Boys At West Point

By DOROTHY ELEANOR CAMBARERI, Honor Essayist

The primary purpose of West Point is to produce soldiers—men of character who are well trained and physically able to act as military leaders. These men are capable not only of carrying out their war-time duties, but also of meeting peace-time emergencies as well.

Many persons think there are easier methods of making a soldier than by the strict discipline employed at West Point. Such critics usually know little about the grim business of war or the essential qualities of a trained soldier. For about one hundred and forty years, West Point has turned out more and better soldiers than any other military school in the world. "When new and better ways are found for building a military character, West Point will be the first to adopt them. That is West Point's job."

The memory of the first day at West Point remains with every Cadet as long as he lives. That first day is the beginning of a period of strict discipline which lasts the entire first year. Orders are given him from all sides, often several at once. There are always some members of the entering class who resign because they just "can't take it."

For the first five weeks, the newcomer is put through a severe course of instruction. Orders which he must obey instantly are hurled at him from all sides. Every move he makes is under the watchful eye of the officers and cadets in charge of him, and he is made to execute every order on the run. At the end of this period, he has lost all sense of his own importance and has learned the most important lesson that a soldier must learn—obedience.

Each Cadet has the personal responsibility of maintaining the honor of the Corps. For example, to copy another man's theme and submit it as original work is a direct violation of Corps Honor. When a Cadet violates the honor code and is reported by another, the penalty is dismissal. If he reports himself, a Cadet is never dismissed.

The splendid carriage of the Cadet is due to the unique system of physical training to which he submits for four years. West Point believes that for a man to do the best mental work, his body must be in the best condition. During the first three weeks of the new Cadet's training, he is given setting-up exercises every morning. Swimming sometimes replaces the setting-up exercises. Thus officers are created who are competent to stand the rigors of active service and to direct the physical training and the sports of the enlisted men in the army.

The educational system of West Point trains the Cadets for all branches of the army. The academic work comprises a well-co-ordinated four-year college course. Cadets may discuss their problems with one another, but the serious work of studying is a personal affair. Instructors require each Cadet to recite on each lesson that is assigned to him. The subjects included in the course are mathematics, science, law, economics, government, history, gunnery, and English—all of which provide a cultured background.

Social life at West Point is truly democratic. A Cadet's previous social standing and his wealth or property have little to do with the place he wins in the Corps. Regardless of his former station in life, he gets the same opportunities as his classmates, and he can make his social life whatever he will.

June Week—the week for which every member of the graduating class has been waiting—arrives at last. The four years of the Cadet are completed, and he is about to be given what he has been striving for during this time—a commission in the army.

At this time, alumni come from all over the country to attend reunions, and there are traditional Alumni Day exercises. There are many important occasions during June Week, but the outstanding is the Graduation Parade. It takes place the day before Graduation, and is the last parade that First Classmen attend as members of the Corps.

The Cadet is now leaving the Corps behind him. He departs, however, filled with the Spirit of West Point. He is going to train men for war and to fill them with his ideals of courage and honor. West Point sends him to this task fully prepared—a soldier and a gentleman.

THE VALEDICTORY

Forward With American Youth

By OLIVE BRIDGE, Valedictorian

A chief aim of society in America is to afford each member the fullest opportunity to develop his powers for social usefulness. To accomplish this, society guarantees specific rights to its young people. In return for these authorizations the young people should show that they have benefited. They can best display their appreciation by being good citizens, by living intelligently and usefully, and by devoting at least part of their time to the service of their fellow men. American youth today are concerned with their privileges and obligations to society.

First let us consider one of the greatest rights which the young people of America enjoy—that of free public education. Is not this a privilege which should be appreciated and utilized to the utmost? Yet there are those who consider it a hindrance and an inconvenience. These groups waste the years during which they are required to attend school, and make no effort to continue their meager education. It is a joy to society, on the other hand, to observe the eagerness and intelligence with which the majority of youth grasp the opportunities offered them. There are three possible primary aims which schools have: The first is to train for intellectual leadership; the second, for citizenship; and the third for a means of livelihood. In the words of Horace Mann, "Education should be free, and its aim should be character." With this thought in mind, we might say that it is not only a proper reimbursement but also a necessary duty for the youth of America to further their education to the limit of their capacity. Society is repaid for its part in free public education with good citizens who lead healthful, intelligent, useful lives.

In addition, there is the sacred right of religious tolerance and freedom of worship. Is this not a right for which the youth of America should be exceedingly thankful? However, I believe that the young people of America are not so grateful as they might be. This is perhaps because of their inability to conceive a situation whereby they would be compelled to worship in one way, or else have the sacred right forbidden. As we appreciate the freedom of this wonderful right, do we not also see that there is a duty for youth to perform concerning it? Religion is a teacher of conduct. It leaves a sense of security and peace to the worshiper. Without a spiritual aspect to his life, a person cannot have a full character. Therefore, his duty is to believe in a religion and to be devoted to it.

Each person in the United States is granted certain political rights, among which are the right to vote and the right to hold a public office. Despite the fact that these are reserved to adults, American youth anticipate the time when they will become leaders of America. To prepare for wise leadership youth must possess a broad education and a sound religion, which are allowed him in the two rights previously discussed. It is, therefore, a precious duty of the youth of America to prepare themselves for a better civic life.

Entirely different from anything I have mentioned is the right of American youth to choose whatever they desire as their vocations. This is a privilege which is taken for granted by most of us, for freedom of choice has always been an American policy. However, if we observe customs of some other countries, we shall see that their young people have very little to say about what their plan of life shall be. And isn't there a duty in choosing vocations—an obligation which America's youth owe to society? It is their duty to choose their vocations wisely, to accept graciously counsel from their elders, and to assure themselves that the chosen professions afford opportunities for social usefulness. Once the choice is determined, youth should strive to excel; otherwise they become a detriment instead of a benefit to society. It is my belief that the youth of America respect the opportunities given to them and will compensate society by being good citizens, by living intelligently and usefully, and by devoting at least part of their time to the welfare of their fellow men. Through the boys and girls of America, united by the effective motive of service, onward America moves forever!

CLASSMATES:

For four years we have anticipated this evening—the evening of our graduation from the school which has given us much valuable training. For some of us tonight marks the end of our formal education; for others, it is but the close of a chapter. The world, however, awaits us. There, we are the leaders of tomorrow; the responsibility of the continued success of America is in our hands. Now, while we are young, let us use wisely the responsibility that is offered us. Let us not neglect the sacred trust—whether civil or military—which has been placed upon us. Always must we remember our motto, "Life Is What We Make It," for through us, the Youth of America, our great country speaks to humanity.

CLASS PROPHECY OF 1942

Strange things happen to us sometimes, and mysterious gifts are likely to fall out of nowhere into our hands. I had said I would never again be surprised at anything, but when the newspaper dropped into my lap from the very thin air about me, I was willing to take back the rash vow I had made; for it was certainly amazing to read the name and date—Boston Tribune, June 1, 1952, owned and edited by John Mulcahey. Where did it come from? And what could it signify to me?

CLASS POEM

To Wakefield High School

Dear School, we leave you now to tread
Along Life's road of hope and dread.
We must not falter on the way.
Our country calls, we youth obey.

To you, our School, a song of praise,
A song of joyful, carefree days.
We raise our voices to the sky
In love for you, dear Wakefield High.

No matter what our lives may hold,
Our faith will meet it, strong and bold.
With courage rare, with conscience clear,
Onward we strive, devoid of fear.

Dear School, we'll face the storm and gale,
We promise you we will not fail.
We'll lift your standards, high and true
Fore'er—The Class of Forty-two!

HISTORY OF CLASS OF 1942

1938 — 1939

As Freshmen we had an easy time at school—short hours, plenty of sleep and easy homework. The only handicap was that there was no pay! The class can well remember the school hours in the afternoon during 1938-1939 from 1-5. That was the only year at high school when sleep was bountiful and school hours were short. Those happy conditions existed because the school was crowded. One group would go to school in the early morning, and our group went in the afternoon. The school committee had suggested that the Freshmen be transferred to local schools, but the question was dropped entirely. Some wished to be transferred, but the majority wished to be known as high school students.

The hurricane visited Wakefield late in September, and no doubt, many had hopes that this school would be carried away by the wind. Unfortunately it wasn't, and the new flag pole on the south side was erected as a means of defiance to the hurricane.

Our class was not lacking in athletic ability, for the famous "Owls" whitewashed Stoneham 45-0 in a football struggle, or should I say struggle. The girls, under the direction of Miss Shepard, took part in many sports including basketball, archery, tennis, bowling, and softball. Our basketball team was exceptionally good for first year girls.

We had the privilege of taking a tuberculin test that year. The tests come around every four years, so our class will have two tests, two needles jabbed into us, before we graduate.

Our class had an eventful year as Freshmen, and the incidents in our lives were not entirely uneventful. And, all joking aside, we really learned to study and acquired a fondness for our Alma Mater.

Sophomore Year

In September, 1939, we returned to school as sophomores on a single session plan.

The Sophomore Class had an active part in studies, athletics, and social activities.

Many changes had taken place because of the single session plan. Gymnasium work was dropped for part of the year and the gymnasium was used as a lunch room for the boys, and the study periods were held in the auditorium. The lap boards for the auditorium and the chairs for the gymnasium were made by the boys in the woodwork department. There was talk of a third staircase to be constructed in the auditorium, but no definite conclusion on the question was reached that year.

Several other changes had taken place in respect to both scholastic and social activities. With the consent of Mr. Peterson, a school paper was started under the name of the Lookout. Representatives from all four classes were chosen, and the first edition was compiled, put to press, and sold for five cents a copy, November 3, 1939. This was the first school paper since 1937, and it proved to be a success.

The sophomores who acted as contributing editors to the Lookout were the following: Olive Bridge, Insley Gove, Armando Giunta, Ralph Bangs, Barbara Miller, Doris Kennedy, Catherine Jackson and Lucille Meuse.

On March 12, 1940, a Student Council was organized. Two officers were chosen from each senior and junior homeroom and one from the sophomore homeroom.

Lucille Meuse, Gladys Alves, Frank DiTonno, Armando Giunta, Ruth Crocker, Lawrence Bartnick, and Martha Hanson were the sophomore members of the council.

The girls' Inter Nos Club, sponsored by Miss Gilmore, was very active throughout the year. The sophomore directors of the Club for 1939-1940 were Olive Bridge and Beverly Crain, who were also elected for the year 1940-1941 as junior directors. Other students who worked for the Club during the year were the following: Olive Bridge, Beverly Crain, June Fournier, Jacqueline Fowler, Martha Hanson, Catherine Jackson, Doris Kennedy, Ann Pappas, Barbara Reid, and Mary Wenzel.

Another item of progress was the beginning of "Socials," afternoon dances given monthly for the purpose of getting the pupils to acquaint themselves with one another.

There were also a few changes in the faculty. Mr. Colucci replaced Mr. Fusco to teach Italian and French, and to assist in coaching athletics, and Miss Doyle replaced Miss Drugan.

The sophomore class took a prominent part in sports, the girls in hockey, bowling, badminton, and archery, with an excellent record being made by the boys in football, baseball, hockey, and track.

After a ten-week vacation, we returned eager to use our title of "Juniors." We were very much surprised to find that new seats had been installed in the auditorium, which served us now as a study room. In October, our class officers were chosen. We chose wisely when the following were elected:

President, LAWRENCE BARTNICK

Vice President, OLIVE BRIDGE

Secretary, SHIRLEY BAKER

Treasurer, RALPH BANGS

The month of October brought forth the Cheerleaders' Dance, which drew a good-sized crowd and was enjoyed by all who attended. The senior play, "June Mad," concerned a typical modern family, the Woods, whose home was always full of cheerfulness, humor, and affection. "Kaye" Loughlin and "Pat" Day shared honors in playing the leading feminine role, Penny, the lovable daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wood. Her playful arguments with Chuck and her baiting of Mervin made the play more delightful. Those taking the leading male roles were Lloyd Marshall and Allan Bill acting as "Chuck." Chuck's earnestness, especially about his glider, and his youthful awkwardness, aroused the sympathy and interest of the audience.

The football season was a victorious one with our team winning seven out of ten games. The annual football banquet, which topped off the excellent work, was enjoyed by the members of the squad. Our Co-Captains were "Gabby" Morgan and "Big Jim" Landrigan, of whom we were proud. The cheerleaders and the band supported the team at every game.

An epidemic of colds resulted in many pupils being absent. Dates for the Junior Prom and Senior Party had to be changed.

Honor study rooms were instituted, sponsored by the Student Council, allowing pupils studying in the auditorium, the privilege of using desks in vacant rooms without supervision of teachers. Members of the Student Council acted as monitors in these rooms.

Under the direction of Mr. William D. Healey, a new program was organized, changing the time of the school periods. The new school day started at eight-five and ended at one fifty-five p.m., and consisted of six, instead of seven, periods a day. A school manual gave an outline of the year's activities. Our director explained the "strip ticket" idea, which enabled a pupil to attend all school activities at a special rate.

The Junior Prom, under the guidance and supervision of Miss Gilmore, was a definite success. The decorations and favors were in the gay colors of a Mexican Fiesta. All those who attended had a most enjoyable evening.

It was our misfortune to lose a well-known senior teacher of Latin, Miss Margaret Ryan. May her memory and good will live on in our school!

Our cheerleaders led the school band in a Music Festival parade at Plymouth. We were all proud to have them attend.

At our class meeting, we chose our motto: Life Is What We Make It, and decided that our class colors should be blue and gold.

After a year filled with many happy events, we looked forward to the coming senior year.

Senior Year

In September we returned, happy with the idea of being Seniors.

We immediately made wise selections for our class officers. For president we re-elected Lawrence Bartnick; for vice president and secretary we re-elected Olive Bridge and Shirley Baker respectively. Paul Lazzaro was chosen treasurer.

Two new members had been appointed to the faculty. Miss Constance Doyle replaced Miss Drugan as civics and business practice teacher. Mr. Francis Dinan succeeded the late Miss Margaret Ryan as head of the Latin department. We wish them both success in their new positions.

Mr. Homer Shellenberger was called to active duty in the United States Naval Reserve as a lieutenant, senior grade. He was replaced by Mr. Harold Rood for the duration of the war.

Presently, the football season began. With Lawrence Bartnick and Paul Lazzaro as our co-captains, we had a very successful season. Unfortunately, Paul Lazzaro suffered a fractured ankle in the first game and was not able to play in the succeeding games.

As winter approached, the basketball team made its appearance. With Lawrence Bartnick as captain and Mr. Colucci as coach, it made a good showing.

Wakefield was accepted into the Eastern Massachusetts Inter-scholastic Hockey League. With Mr. Dinan as coach, our team became the champions of the league. This was a fine record for a team that had never played indoor hockey before.

Holding the attention of two full houses, the three-act comedy, "What a Life," was presented by members of the Senior class on December 5 and 6, 1941. The presentation was a success in that it kept the audience laughing from start to finish. The parts, very well played, showed the benefit of Mr. Butler's competent direction.

The Lookout appeared every other Friday with new features presented. Much of the credit is due to our co-editors, Ralph Bangs and John Mulcahey.

The social event looked forward to by everyone, the Senior Party, was a great success socially and financially.

Finally, as picture-taking time came, the Seniors started to be absent from school every now and then. Reviews for "College Boards" started about the same time, and we began to realize that our pleasant high school days were practically ended. In spite of these responsibilities, we are able to see only sunny skies ahead, and are determined to prove that "Life Is What We Make It."
